Angela counsels employers in employment matters and all aspects of litigation. She has extensive litigation experience and has successfully represented clients before courts in Massachusetts, throughout the San Francisco Bay Area and before the EEOC and MCAD. She is also a trained mediator and experienced negotiator, experience she uses to help her clients address workplace conflict and complaints, and avoid litigation.

Angela is an accomplished writer, researcher and advocate. She focuses her practice on assessing and avoiding client employment law liability through carefully targeted legal advice, training, and well written policies and handbooks. She conducts workplace audits and investigations including Title VII and Title IX, discrimination, and harassment complaints. Angela also provides workshops, presentations, and training regarding rapidly changing employment laws to help employers remain in compliance.

Angela is committed to proactive risk management, and regularly assists HR professionals, C-Suite Executives, and business owners with complex employment matters arising under the ADA, FMLA, COBRA, Title VII, NLRA, ADEA and state employment laws. Licensed in both California and Massachusetts, Angela is also well versed in guiding multi-state employers through complex state specific employment regulations.
